

Strategic Allocations to Actively Managed Equity and Fixed Income Assets

Strategy overview

A 55/45 equity/fixed income, multi-asset strategy providing exposure to the investment expertise of the Voya Investment Management equity and fixed income teams in a single strategy.

U.S. equity markets ended the quarter on a high note, bolstered by economic resilience, waning inflation and a pause in the U.S. Federal Reserve's interest rate hiking cycle. The S&P 500 Index rose by 11.69% and the Nasdaq Composite Index advanced by 13.56%. Information technology stocks led while utilities lagged. Growth stocks outperformed value stocks during the quarter, and small caps beat large caps.

The U.S. bond market staged a comeback during the quarter. The Bloomberg U.S. Aggregate Bond Index gained 6.82% on the unexpected strength of the economy. The 10-year U.S. Treasury yield moved from 4.69% at the beginning of the quarter to 3.88% by quarter-end as inflation eased and expectations of interest rate cuts in 2024 grew.

In our view, the side effects of the pandemic shock have mostly subsided, and inflation is the final piece of the puzzle. We view the recovery not as a classic business cycle, but as an economy trying to normalize following a natural disaster. First came the government-mandated lockdowns and the bust. Then came the re-openings and the effects of mega-policy stimulus. Lastly came the 180-degree reversal in monetary policy. Inflation peaked in June 2022 at 9.1%, which means that most of the disinflation we have seen since then has had little to do with Fed policy. We believe that disinflation could continue (and may intensify) over the next 18 months. Corporate earnings are accelerating as the U.S. consumer remains healthy and corporate fundamental factors are sound.

Disclaimers

Principal risks: all investing involves risks of fluctuating prices and the uncertainties of rates of return and yield. As with any portfolio, you could lose money on your investment in the Voya Balanced Large Cap Core Value SMA. Stocks are more volatile than bonds, and portfolios with a higher concentration of stocks are more likely to experience greater fluctuations in value than portfolios with a higher concentration of bonds. Investing in bonds also entails credit risk and interest rate risk. The strategic allocation of the Voya Balanced Large Cap Core Value SMA is expected to remain constant; as a result, the SMA's performance will depend on the performance of the underlying investment strategies rather than tactical changes to its asset allocations. Market and asset class performance may differ in the future from historical performance and the assumptions used to form the strategic asset allocations for the Voya Balanced Large Cap Core Value SMA. There is risk that you could achieve better returns in an underlying portfolio or other portfolios representing a single asset class than in the Voya Balanced Large Cap Core Value SMA.

While the model portfolio was created to reflect the investment strategy and asset allocation policy of Consults, it does not represent the performance of actual accounts and, therefore, does not factor in changes in asset allocation and timing of investments that might have been made based on the then-current economic conditions, and which may have changed the results.

In addition, Voya cannot assure that the non-Consults results would be similar to its results from management of Consults accounts. Foreign investments, including ADRs, may be exposed to certain risks not typically involved in domestic investments such as exchange rate fluctuations, adverse political and economic developments, imposition of exchange controls or other foreign laws or restrictions.

The Standard and Poor's 500 Index is designed to measure performance of the broad domestic economy through changes in the aggregate market value of 500 stocks representing all major industries. The index includes 500 leading companies and covers approximately 80% of available market capitalization. Index returns do not reflect fees, brokerage commissions, taxes or other expenses of investing. Investors cannot invest directly in an Index.
