June 1, 2018

Dear Voya Fund Shareholder,

This notice is meant to provide Voya GNMA Income Fund shareholders with an estimate of the sources of the Fund's distribution that is payable on May 1, 2018. This estimate may, and likely will, change over time based on Fund investment activities and changes in the value of Fund investments.

Please note that this notice is for informational purposes only. The information is not determinative of the tax character of Fund distributions for the 2018 calendar year, which will be determined after the close of the 2018 calendar year. The Fund will send you a Form 1099-DIV for the calendar year that will provide the character of Fund distributions for federal income tax purposes.

FAQ's

Why am I receiving this notice?

Section 19 of the Investment Company Act of 1940 requires an investment company to accompany distribution payments with a notice if any part of that payment is from a source other than accumulated net investment income, not including profits or losses from the sale of securities or other properties.

What is return of capital?

If the distribution you receive exceeds the amount of net investment income and capital gains the Fund earns over the period, a portion of the distribution will be classified as return of capital. A return of capital distribution does not necessarily reflect the Fund's investment performance.

How is return of capital taxed?

The portion of your distribution that is classified as return of capital on Form 1099-DIV for the calendar year is not immediately taxed. Instead, the shareholder's average cost basis (ACB) will be lowered by the amount of the capital returned. Thus, any gains as a result of returning capital to shareholders will be taxed upon sale of the shares held of the Fund at the appropriate capital gain tax rate.
